

DONOVAN ASSAILS RECORD OF JAVITS

Democrat Gets Support of State Veterans' Group

By ANNA PETERSEN

James B. Donovan, the Democratic-Liberal candidate for Senator yesterday called Senator Jacob K. Javits "the most ineffective representative we have ever had in Congress."

Speaking to several hundred students at Manhattan College, 242d Street and Broadway, Mr. Donovan said:

"Mr. Javits runs as a Republican upstate and levels his attacks on President Kennedy; then comes down to New York and rapidly becomes the most liberal of liberals. When the time comes to vote, he keeps his eyes on New York City."

The Javits record, he said, showed that the Senator had voted in favor of 74 per cent of all Democratic measures, and against 51 per cent of all Republican measures.

In a time of domestic and international crises, Mr. Donovan said, President Kennedy is entitled to the advice and support of a New York Senator from his own party.

Mr. Donovan declared that Communist China was the "real factor in the political game of chess" on the international scene. He said that China would soon develop nuclear weapons and would then have the capability and the intention to conduct nuclear warfare because of her expanding population.

Billion Population Seen

The estimated population of Communist China, he said, will be a billion by 1975, and "her obvious expansion" will be in the direction of Russia.

Mr. Donovan told the students that his mission to Cuba was a private endeavor, representing a committee of Americans to rescue prisoners of Premier Fidel Castro.

"My job," he said, "is completely divorced from the election campaign, and I gave it priority because it involves 1,200 human lives."

The candidate was greeted at the college by Brother Alban of Mary, the vice president. Later, he visited Fordham University, where he received a Doctor of Laws degree in June and from which he was graduated in 1937.

Mr. Donovan's headquarters announced that he had received the unanimous support of the Independent Veterans Committee, composed of members of all veteran organizations in the state. Mr. Donovan, past commander of the Clavin Post of the American Legion, was a commander in the Navy.
